

OHTA pre-registration self-assessment for candidates

W201 Basic Principles in Occupational Hygiene

The following are examples of topics covered in the course. Answers to the following questions, and all exam and homework questions are covered in the training course.

- The skin performs a number of functions. List four (4) of these functions and briefly explain how each assists the body.
- List four (4) potential health effects of over exposure to welding fumes.
- The nervous system is broadly divided into two (2) categories. What are these two (2) categories?
- Two key features of sound are frequency and intensity. Briefly describe these two key features
- List four (4) examples of electromagnetic waves.
- List four (4) examples of electromagnetic waves.
- List four (4) measures that can be taken to control exposure to people from legionella pneumophila.