Introduction

Background

The New Zealand Occupational Hygiene Society Incorporated (NZOHS) is a non profit organization with a constitution (Rules of the New Zealand Occupational Hygiene Society) held with the New Zealand Incorporated Societies – Companies Office.

This bylaw provides further information on the implementation of the objectives of the NZOHS.

The Objective of NZOHS

To further the practice, professionalism and recognition of Occupational Hygiene in New Zealand. (note: refer further details in Constitution)

The Activities of NZOHS (From Constitution)

The society may:

- Engage in any lawful activity that contributes to the attainment of its objectives;
- Set standards of professional competence and maintain a register of those members who meet its standards;
- Prepare and publish standards relating to the teaching and training of occupational hygienists;
- Make representations on matters within the competence of its members to governments, industry and trade unions;
- Promote, research, publish scientific and technical papers;
- Collect, order and disseminate information on any or all aspects of occupational hygiene and allied subjects;
- Conduct conferences, public meetings, exhibitions and courses of instruction.

Code of Ethics

All members must abide by Code of Ethics which are found here:
<https://nzohs.org.nz/membership/nzohs-code-of-ethics/>

Membership committee and ratification

The membership sub-committee (MC) is made up of Full, Fellow, or Retired NZOHS members; one of whom must be a current serving council member. The MC is responsible for reviewing all technical and full membership applications and making a determination on whether the application meets the required standards for that grade and hence whether the application is accepted or rejected.

Once a determination is made by the MC this is then discussed at the next council meeting and ratified. During the ratification all council members are asked if there are any objections. If there are not any objections the membership determination response can be sent out. If there are objections these will be further discussed by council and a decision made on whether the membership progresses or not.

Note: Although experience may be predominantly in one specialist area, Full Members of NZOHS (regardless of specialty) must be able to provide evidence of understanding and experience in general occupational hygiene (i.e. recognition, identification, assessment and control of risks to worker health).

Comment

Fellow members are required to abide by the NZOHS continuing professional development system and maintain the required points in the required time period (<https://nzohs.org.nz/wpcontent/uploads/2016/11/NZOHS-CPD-rulebook-Jan-2016.pdf>).

Retired membership

Fees Application fee: NA

Annual membership fee: $75 + GST

Requirements

Full or Fellow members who retire from employment can apply for retired membership. Members who retire on grounds of ill health, regardless of age, and will not be returning to any paid employment can also apply. Retired status allows for continuation of all rights and privileges of NZOHS membership at a reduced rate.

To apply for a retired membership the member must send a formal request to the President with accompanying reasons for the change in membership status. This will then be discussed at the next council meeting and a decision made on whether the request will be accepted. There will be no reimbursement of paid membership fees but the fees will reduce during the next fee period.

Retired members can:

- Use postnominals as detailed below
- Attend the member's meetings
- Attend the annual general meeting
- Have access to the members only area of the website which includes the forums
- Get the NZOHS newsletter and email updates
